Stitch n Pitch

The Sacramento Rivercats had Stitch n Pitch Tuesday night. They gave over 150 knitters some cute backpacks with the Stitch n Pitch logo on them. They (Marketing manager Melanie Levy) wanted to include a free pattern so I designed a premie and babie hat pattern: a kitty hat!

They were so appreciative of my donation that they asked me to come promote my book at the front gate. I donated one for a raffle too.

ABOUT ME

LORNA MISER

Long, long ago I was a skilled seamstress, I love to sew and design clothing. Then I switched to knitting, spinning and dyeing my own yarns. With those skills I created Lorna's Laces back in 1986. I sold that company in 2003. Since then I've been designing knitwear for every yarn company and magazine you can name as well as writing my first book. "Faith, Hope, Love, Knitting" is now available! I'm starting on my next book now!

Then the biggest surprise was being asked to throw out the first ball. There are actually three "firsts". Lily went first, she won a drawing from the Stitch n Bitch knitting group, then me, then Smokey Bear (his middle name is not "the"). It was so fun going down the tunnel and being on the field. I covered a baseball with lavender yarn and threw a pretty darn good pitch although the catcher dropped it. lol

This was my first time at a Stitch N Pitch game. It was so much fun! Hey Lorna, maybe you should have stayed in the game and pitched. Maybe then the River Cats would have won!
